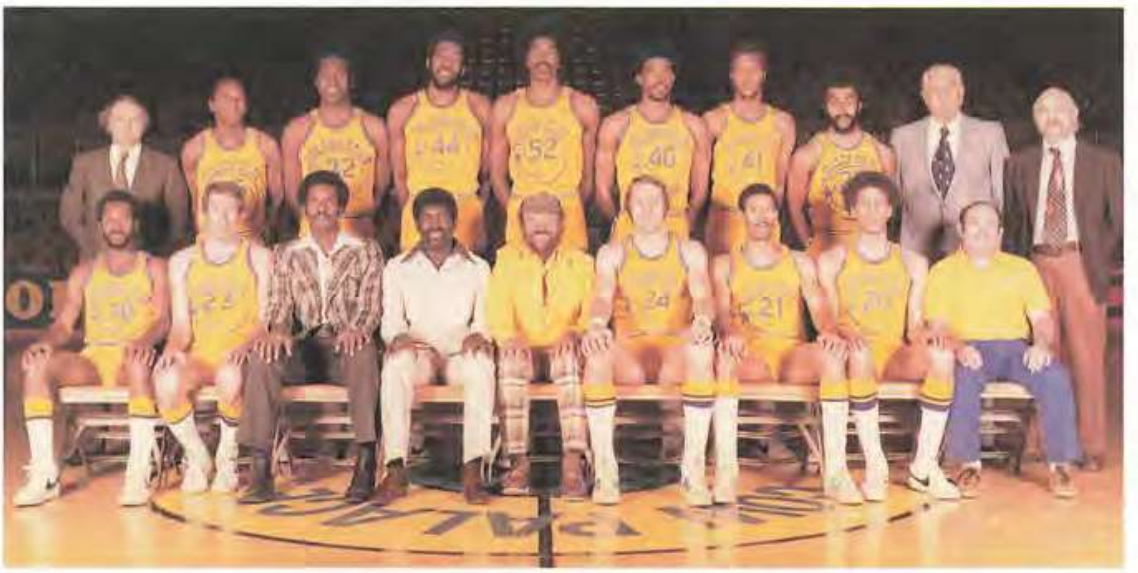
Celebrating 20 Years

On May 25, 1975, owner Franklin Mieuli, head coach Alvin Attles and their band of over-achievers completed one of the most unthinkable feats in basketball history when they swept the Washington Bullets 4-0 to capture the franchise's first NBA Championship since moving to the West Coast in 1962.

Playing their first season without All-Star center Nate Thurmond, who was traded in the off-season, the Warriors posted a 48-34 regular season record and seemed an unlikely candidate to emerge from the Western Conference, let alone challenge for the NBA Championship.

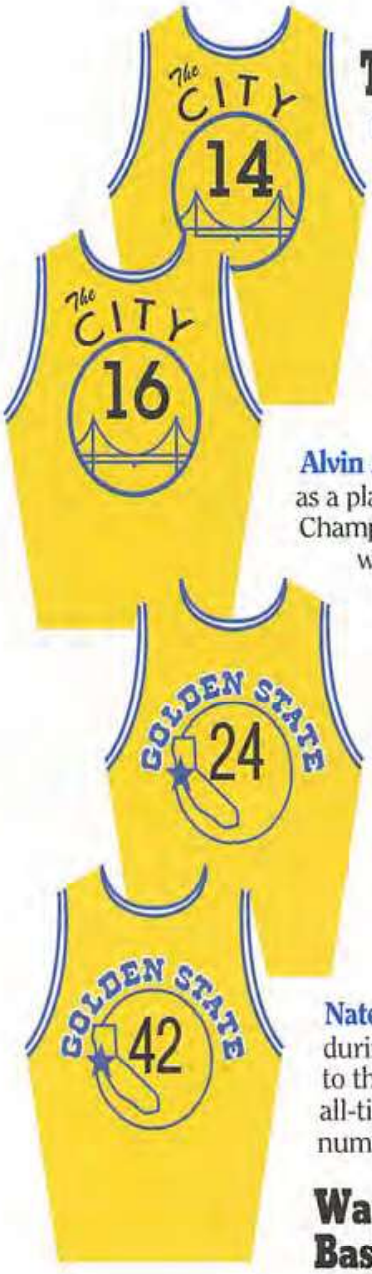
But boasting a silky-smooth blend of young and experienced players including Rick Barry, Keith Wilkes, Butch Beard, Charles Johnson, Clifford Ray, Jeff Mullins, Phil Smith, George Johnson, Derrek Dickey, Charles Dudley, Steve Bracey and Bill Bridges, the Warriors moved through the playoffs. They began by defeating the Seattle SuperSonics 4-2 in the opening round and then overcame a 3-2 deficit to defeat the Chicago Bulls 4-3 in the Western Conference Finals, setting up an NBA Finals against Elvin Hayes, Wes Unseld and the rest of the Washington Bullets.



Washington finished the regular season tied for the best record (60-22) in the league and defeated the defending NBA Champion Boston Celtics 4-2 in the Eastern Conference Finals. Owners of a league-best 36-5 home record and the homecourt advantage, the Bullets seemed an easy pick over the Warriors.

The wily Warriors had other ideas, however, immediately putting their stamp on the series with a 101-95 win in Washington in Game One. The Warriors then defended their home court with a 92-91 victory and a 109-101 win three days later, setting the stage for the climactic Game Four in Washington. In Game Four, the Warriors pulled out a dramatic 96-95 win to give Golden State the title.

The 1974-75 Warriors remain one of only five teams to sweep an NBA Finals and the only team in history to have completed an NBA Finals sweep without finishing the season with the best record in the league.



The Big Four

General Information

Media Guidelines and Information

MEDIA CREDENTIALS: All requests should be directed to the Warriors media relations office in writing at least 36 hours prior to the game you wish to cover. Since space is limited, media accommodations are provided on a priority basis. Credentials may be picked up at the press gate, located in the northeast corner of the arena, on the lower level. Credentials must be worn at all times and are non-transferable.

MEDIA PARKING/MEDIA GATE: Media parking is located on the north side of the arena in lot H. Parking passes must be secured in advance with the media relations department and can be picked up at the 66th Avenue entrance to the arena. The media gate is located in the northeast corner of the arena, on the lower level.

MEDIA WORK ROOM: The media work room is located at the north end of the arena on the lower level and is open three hours before game time. Telephones, fax service, game notes, statistics, quotes and out-of-town scores are available in this area.

PRE AND POST-GAME INTERVIEWS: In accordance with NBA policy, the locker rooms are open to members of the media until 45 minutes before game time and within 10 minutes after the game. Players and coaches are available for interviews at those times. Only working members of the media with valid credentials will be admitted to the locker rooms.

GAME NOTES AND STATISTICS: Game notes and programs are available in the media work room three hours before each game. Statistics are distributed to the working media during the game. Post-game notes and quotes are distributed a short time following the completion of the game.

FAX SERVICE: The Warriors will provide complimentary fax service to members of the working media following each game.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Limited space is available at each end of the court for both television and still photographers. Photographers must stay in the designated area and are asked to be considerate of season ticket holders seated directly behind them.

MEALS: A pre-game meal is served on the east side of the arena, on the lower level, two hours before each game. Beverages and snacks are available in the media work room at halftime and following each game.

PRACTICE POLICY: The Warriors' practices are closed to the public and the media. The players and coaches are available for a short time immediately following each practice for media interviews. Please contact the Warriors' media relations department to confirm practice times and the availability of the players and coaches. Interviews lasting longer than five minutes should be scheduled in advance with the media relations department.

THE WARRIORS HOTLINE: The media relations department will continue to provide the "Warriors Hotline" as a service to the media. With up-to-the-minute Warriors news and injury reports and broadcast-quality actualities from those making the news, the "Hotline" is designed to provide instant information and quotes for those who can't be there in person. For the "Hotline" number or for more information on how to use it, please call (510) 382-2314.

FAXBACK: While the Warriors will continue to handle requests for Warriors and NBA information, we are encouraging the media to employ the NBA's FaxBack program as a direct, easy-to-use source for all information pertaining to all 27 teams in the NBA. Users will be able to obtain updated game notes, box scores, league-wide statistics, rosters and a long list of other categories. You can access FaxBack from any fax machine (home, office, hotel, airport), 24 hours a day. For the FaxBack number and more information on how to use it, please call the media relations department.

Dick Callahan
Public Address Announcer

Don Nelson and Tim Hardaway weren't the only representatives of the Warriors invited to the 1994 World Championship of Basketball as team public address announcer Dick Callahan took his signature "sssh-hhoooting two" and "steps" calls north to Toronto for 10 games. Callahan's summer trip in Canada included Team USA's gold medal-winning victory over Russia.

Callahan returns to the Oakland Coliseum Arena for his 13th season with the Warriors. He also calls the action for St. Mary's basketball and football games. When not sitting behind the microphone, Callahan serves as CEO of Kosich and Callahan Insurance Agency in Lafayette and Walnut Creek. He and his wife, Patricia, make their home in Moraga.

Commitment to the Community

The NBA, its players and its coaches share a commitment to supporting and improving the quality of life in their communities. On the national and local levels, the NBA and its 27 teams are involved in a wide-variety of public service initiatives.

Since 1989 the NBA and the National Basketball Players Association have worked together to address the problem of student drop-outs through the NBA Stay in School program. Created to encourage students to graduate from high school, the program uses the popularity of NBA players and coaches to stress the importance of attitude, attendance and achievement in school, and to help young people to develop pride and self-esteem. Golden State Warriors players and coaches visit a different junior high school each season during National Stay in School Day to discuss with students the importance of education.

Through public service announcements on television and radio and through other awareness-building programs, the NBA and its players also support the work of the Special Olympics, CARE, the National Committee to Prevent Child Abuse and Operation Prom/Graduation, a program that encourages high-school seniors to celebrate an alcohol-free prom and graduation season. The NBA creates PSA programs in honor of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., in January and Black History Month each February, and will also produce PSA's on behalf of the Retinitis Pigmentosa Foundation to fight blindness and Second Harvest, a nationwide food bank.

On a local level, the Warriors continue to be actively involved in reaching out to the community. Players and coaches can be found lending their time to a variety of projects and programs such as reading to students through the "Tall Tales" program, building homes through the "Oakland's Home Team" program and making women more aware of breast cancer through "Warriors Women Save Lives."

The Warriors have made it their goal to pinpoint the pertinent issues facing the Bay Area and to address them in a constructive way. From an adult literacy program to a drug free basketball league, the Warriors and their partners strive to promote change and be a positive influence in the community.

Jim Fitzgerald

Chairman

Chairman Jim Fitzgerald moves into his 22nd year with the NBA and his ninth with the Warriors. The longtime chairman of the Milwaukee Bucks currently ranks third in seniority on the 27-member NBA Board of Governors, behind only Washington's Abe Pollin and Detroit's William Davidson. In his years on the NBA's Board of Governors, Fitzgerald has served as chairman of the NBA Television Committee and was a member of the committee which negotiated the first salary cap agreement with the players' association.

Since leading a group of investors in the purchase of the Warriors in May 1986, Fitzgerald and team president Dan Finnane have orchestrated a dramatic growth in the franchise. With fewer than 2,000 season ticket holders (ranked 17th in league-wide attendance) when he took over the Warriors, Fitzgerald has overseen an increase in the season ticket holder base to the point where it recently had to be capped at 13,000. The Warriors head into this season with 229 consecutive sellouts. Fitzgerald and Finnane are currently working to bring a new sports and entertainment facility to the Bay Area.

In addition to the tremendous support received at the Coliseum, the Warriors have also become hot property on the airwaves during Fitzgerald's tenure. This season all 82 games will be broadcast either locally on KPIX, KICU or SportsChannel, or nationally on NBC, TNT or TBS.

The Janesville, Wisconsin, native has been involved in commercial real estate, banking and the petroleum industry, but it is in the cable television industry where he has achieved his greatest success. As one of America's cable television pioneers in the early 1960's, Fitzgerald founded Total TV, Inc. and built the first cable TV system in Wisconsin in 1965. Under his stewardship, Total TV built more than 40 cable television systems in Wisconsin and Florida before he sold the company in 1984.

He first became involved with the NBA in 1973 as a member of the Milwaukee Bucks' Board of Directors. Three years later, shortly after the team's top management approved the trade which sent Kareem Abdul Jabbar to the Los Angeles Lakers, Fitzgerald organized a group of investors and purchased control of the team and became the team's president and chairman of the board. When Bucks' Head Coach Larry Costello resigned after watching the team get off to a 3-15 start during the 1976-77 season, Fitzgerald put first-year assistant coach Don Nelson in charge of coaching the team and making player personnel decisions.

In their 10 years together in Milwaukee, Fitzgerald and Nelson guided the Bucks to six consecutive division titles from 1980-86, three trips to the Eastern Conference Finals and a won-loss record topped only by the Los Angeles Lakers, Boston Celtics and the Philadelphia 76ers.

"Nellie and I grew up together on the management side of the professional sports business," Fitzgerald said. "We were both novices — so was our first team, for that matter — three of the starters were rookies. We called ourselves the 'Green and Growing Milwaukee Bucks' — everyone from the top down was green. I think when you grow together from a zero base-make mistakes together — share success together, you form a bond that becomes very deep."

Fitzgerald graduated from the University of Notre Dame with a degree in commerce in 1947. He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II and the Korean conflict. He and Marilyn, his wife of 44 years, maintain residences in Janesville, Wis. and Indian Wells, Calif. They have six children Mike, Brian, Marcia, Jim Jr., Carolyn and Ellen — and 10 grandchildren.

Dan Finnane

President

Respected as an effective administrator and a skilled business executive, Warriors President and part-owner Dan Finnane moves into his ninth season with the team. He is primarily in charge of the day-to-day management and operation of the franchise which includes setting policy and overseeing the club's vice presidents. Finnane is actively involved in negotiating player contracts, approving major business decisions and broadcasting, advertising and marketing contracts. In addition, he maintains a close working relationship with the Oakland Coliseum board of directors and with officials from the City of Oakland and County of Alameda responsible for operating the Oakland Coliseum Arena. Currently he is working to bring a new sports and entertainment facility to the Bay Area.

Since purchasing the team with Warriors Chairman Jim Fitzgerald in May 1986, Finnane has helped mold the organization into one of the most progressive franchises in the National Basketball Association. He has orchestrated the steady growth of the season ticket base, corporate sponsorship support and television coverage. With only 1,826 season ticket holders watching the 1985-86 Warriors, Finnane and his staff have guided the growth of the Warriors' fan base to the point where the club has had to cap season ticket sales at 13,000. The Warriors have sold out all of their games dating back to March 1989 (229 consecutive games). The increased fan interest has transformed the Warriors into one of the NBA's premier television attractions, with all of the team's games to be broadcast during the 1994-95 season, including at least 14 national telecasts.

In addition to steering the growth of the Warriors' as a financial enterprise, Finnane has also made relations with the community a centerpiece of the Warriors' organization. The Warriors are one of the NBA's leaders in community involvement, implementing a wide variety of programs designed to assist Oakland and the surrounding area. Under his guidance, the Warriors started their highly-successful "Warriors for High School Sports" program, a major effort to fund financially-strapped high school athletic departments. The Warriors also support Children's Hospital Oakland and the Road Warriors, a nationally-recognized wheelchair basketball team.

Finnane first became associated with Fitzgerald in 1975, while serving as president of First Financial Group, a bank holding company in Janesville, Wisconsin. Prior to joining the Warriors, he was executive vice president of TOTAL TV, Inc., the largest cable television company in Wisconsin, from 1980 to 1984. He served on the board of directors of the Milwaukee Bucks for seven years, beginning in 1978. In 1985, he worked closely with Fitzgerald in negotiating the sale of the Bucks to Milwaukee businessman and current United States Senator Herb Kohl.

Prior to 1975, Finnane was senior vice president of Dain Bosworth and Company, a Minneapolis-based investment banking firm. From 1965 to 1968, he was a registered representative of Robert W. Baird and Company, an investment banking firm in Wisconsin.

A native of Evansville, Wisconsin, Finnane, 60, graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1958 with a bachelor's degree in business administration. He is a certified public accountant. He and his wife, Carol, live in San Francisco and have five adult children — Cedric, Kelly, Dan, Ann and David and seven grandchildren.

Don Nelson

Head Coach and General Manager

Following a history-making summer as the head coach of Dream Team II, USA Basketball's gold medal-winning squad at the 1994 World Championship of Basketball, Don Nelson continues to work towards adding a sixth NBA World Championship ring to his jewelry collection.

A veteran of 32 seasons in the NBA as either a player, head coach or general manager, "Nellie" was a member of five league championship teams in his 11 years as a Boston Celtics forward. He is attempting to become the 10th man in history to win an NBA title both as a player and head coach.

The winner of an unprecedented three NBA Coach of the Year Awards (1983, 1985 and 1992), Nelson is also in the league's record book for having participated in more games as a player and/or head coach (2,691) than anyone else in history (includes regular season and playoff contests). The only person who has been employed by the three most successful franchises in NBA history (based on winning percentages) — the Los Angeles Lakers (player, 1963-65), Boston Celtics (player, 1965-76) and Milwaukee Bucks (head coach,1976-87) — he holds the league records for most seasons as an active member of a team with a winning record (25) and most games of playoff experience (262).

Nelson enters the 1994-95 season, his 18th as an NBA head coach, as the seventh-winningest coach in league history with an 803-573 (.584) record. He needs three wins to pass Cotton Fitzsimmons (805-745, .519) for sixth place and should need only a few more years to catch his former Boston coach and long-time mentor Red Auerbach, the only man with more victories (938) and a better career winning percentage (.662).

This is Nelson's eighth season as general manager and seventh as head coach of the Warriors. The dean of NBA head coaches, his tenure with the same team is currently the longest of any coach in the league. His regular season record of 263-229 (.535) places him second only to Al Attles (555 victories in 14 seasons) on the Warriors' coaching wins list.

Despite a rash of injuries which forced Tim Hardaway and Sarunas Marciulionis to miss the entire season and kept Chris Mullin sidelined for 20 games, Nelson guided the Warriors to the NBA's most improved record, a 50-32 mark, during the 1993-94 season. The highlights of his ninth 50-win season as a coach included his 800th career victory, a milestone achieved vs. Utah on April 16, 1994. Nelson reached the 800-win mark in fewer games (1,372) and at a younger age (53) than any coach in league history, except for Red Auerbach. The Warriors, under Nelson's direction, owned the NBA's best record last season in games decided by five points or fewer (22-5), games which they led going into the fourth period (35-1) and games which they held their opponents to fewer than 100 points (23-2). Golden State ranked second in the league on offense with a 107.9 points per game average. The Warriors have ranked among the NBA's top three teams on offense each of the past five seasons and won the league's scoring title in 1989-90 and 1991-92. Nelson is one of only eight coaches in history to lead teams which have ranked first in the NBA on offense and defense. His Milwaukee teams paced the league in fewest points allowed during the 1983-84 and 1984-85 seasons.

"He's a great teacher. He teaches his guys to play basketball, not to just play a position. What he teaches doesn't just take two weeks of training camp, or even one season. We're always learning and that makes it fun."

— Chris Mullin, Warriors

"Being a former player, he knows all the aspects of the game — how people feel and how players react on the floor. He lets us play. Everyone I've spoken to says he's the best coach in the league."

— Tim Hardaway, Warriors

"I will remember the (1993-94) season as one of the most difficult, yet one of the best I've ever had. There were some hard times with the team, but they responded to what they had to respond to and it has resulted in a solidification of the team. Friendships and relationships are really starting to grow. I'll probably look back and say it's the best year I've ever had. When you go through hard times and the end results are good, that's what you remember."

— Don Nelson

Prior to joining the Warriors organization in 1987, Nelson served as the Bucks' Head Coach and Vice President of Basketball Operations. In his 11 seasons in Milwaukee, he became the winningest coach in club history with a 540-344 record. The Bucks won 50 or more games in seven straight seasons and earned seven consecutive division titles (1980 Midwest, 1981-86 Central), which, at the time, made up the second-best streak of titles in league history, trailing only Boston's run of nine straight division championships which dates back to the late 1950s.

He resigned his Milwaukee post on May 27, 1987 and was offered the opportunity to join the Warriors as executive vice president and part-owner. He began his tenure on July 1, 1987. Nelson's Milwaukee contract prohibited his involvement in player personnel matters for another NBA club until Golden State compensated the Bucks with a 1988 second round draft pick on December 29, 1987. Nelson was officially named general manager of the Warriors the next day. On April 5, 1988, he agreed to take over the coaching reins of the Warriors beginning with the 1988-89 season, thus filling the vacancy created by the resignation of George Karl two weeks earlier.

Nelson was selected in the third round (as the 19th pick overall) of the 1962 NBA Draft by the Chicago Zephyrs. His rights were sold to the Lakers on September 6, 1963. He was waived by Los Angeles on October 21, 1965 and signed by Boston as a free agent on October 28, 1965. He is one of only 10 men in history to play for both the Lakers and Celtics.

As Boston's celebrated sixth man, he hit one of the most famous shots in the history of the NBA Playoffs on May 5, 1969. With the score tied and time running out in the seventh game of the NBA Finals, Nelson grabbed a loose ball and fired a shot which bounced high off the back of the rim, then fell through the net to give the Celtics a 108-106 victory over the Lakers in Los Angeles.

Nelson missed only 21 games in his 11 seasons with the Celtics and established a franchise record streak of 465 games played from 1967-72. He led the league in field goal shooting percentage (.539), at age 34, during the 1974-75 season. Nelson wrapped up his 14-year playing career after Boston's 1975-76 championship season. His uniform number 19 has been retired by the Celtics.

Nelson also leads an active life off the basketball court. His Bay Area activities include work with Fannie Mae's East Bay Habitat for Humanity project, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, the RFK Human Rights Foundation and visits to local hospitals and schools. He has received numerous awards, including the Vincent T. Lombardi Champions Award, which is named after the former pro football coach and presented to outstanding coaches and athletes who have dedicated themselves to making significant civic contributions. One of his best-known community service projects was Nellie's Farm Fund, a program he started in 1986 to help needy farm families in Wisconsin. He twice drove a farm tractor across the state to auction off his colorful collection of fish ties (which he no longer wears) and gather contributions from supporters across America's Dairyland.

Don Arvid Nelson was born on May 15, 1940 and grew up on his grandparents' farm in rural Illinois before attending the University of Iowa. As a Hawkeye, Nelson was a two-time All-America selection and still ranks as the fifth-leading scorer in school history. On June 29, 1991, he married Joy Wolfgram. They make their home in Alameda. Nelson has four children — Julie, Donn (a Warriors assistant coach), Chris and Katie.

Active Coaches in Capital Letters

Al Attles

Vice President and Assistant General Manager

Only Boston's Red Auerbach and Philadelphia's Harvey Pollack have been with their franchises longer than Alvin Attles, who enters his 35th season with the Warriors. He currently serves as the team's vice president and assistant general manager, a position he has held since 1987.

Although his number 16 hangs from the rafters as a reminder of his tenacious play on the court and his tremendous success prowling the sidelines as a coach, Attles, 58, has become a key advisor to the basketball operations office and a highly sought-after motivational speaker. In addition he remains unmatched in his commitment to the community, appearing regularly at schools and playgrounds throughout the Bay Area. This devotion to the community, as well as his success as a player and coach, helped Attles earn induction into the Bay Area Sports Hall of Fame in 1993.

His playing career began in 1960 as a fifth round draft pick out of North Carolina A&T. During his 11 seasons and 712 regular season games, Attles averaged 8.9 points, 3.5 rebounds, and 3.5 assists. What those statistics don't show is the hard-nosed style of play and toughness that earned Attles the nickname "The Destroyer." He is even included in the NBA record book for an offensive explosion that remains unmatched. On March 2, 1962 in a game against the New York Knicks, he teamed up with Wilt Chamberlain to score 117 points, the most points ever scored by a duo in a single game. Chamberlain had 100 of them.

As a head coach, Attles compiled a 555-516 (.518) record making him the 14th winningest coach in NBA history. He capped off a 48-34 regular season campaign in the 1974-75 season by guiding the Warriors to the NBA Championship, a 4-0 sweep over the Washington Bullets. The following season he led the team to a franchise-best 59-23 mark. Attles was named to coach the Western Conference All-Star teams for both the 1975 and 1976 games.

As a young athlete in Newark, NJ, Attles starred in four sports (baseball, basketball, football and track) at Weequahic High School. He was later voted into the New Jersey Sportswriter's Hall of Fame in 1991. He moved on to North Carolina A&T where he graduated with a bachelor's degree in physical education and history. Attles later added a master's degree in curriculum and instruction from the University of San Francisco in 1983. He and his wife Wilhemina currently reside in Oakland and have two adult children, Alvin III and Erica.

Donn Nelson

Assistant Coach

Donn Nelson, the son of Warriors Head Coach and General Manager Don Nelson, enters his eighth season overall with the Warriors, his fifth as a member of the coaching staff, and his first as Golden State's lead assistant.

Nelson, 32, is considered an authority on foreign basketball talent, dating back to his overseas experience as a player with Athletes In Action in 1986. In the summer of 1992, he served as the assistant coach of the bronze-medal winning Lithuanian Olympic Team. He is credited with helping former Golden State guard Sarunas Marciulionis become the first player from the former Soviet Union to sign an NBA contract. The pioneering move helped open the U.S. basketball door for a number of former Eastern Bloc players.

The younger Nelson spent last summer scouting for USA Basketball, helping prepare Dream Team II for the World Championship of Basketball in Toronto. The Americans, coached by his father, overwhelmed Russia to win the gold medal at the Worlds for only the third time.

In addition to his evaluation skills, Nelson's reputation as a coach continues to grow. He led the Warriors to the championship of the 1993 Rocky Mountain Revue, guiding the summer league entry to a 7-0 record. He has also helped modernize the team's basketball operations, introducing computers as a scouting and information tool.

Nelson played four seasons of basketball at Wheaton College in Wheaton, Ill., averaging 17.1 points per game before graduating in 1986 with degrees in physical education and Christian education. He and his wife Lotta live in Alameda with their two-year-old daughter Christie and infant son Don.

Bob Lanier

Assistant Coach

Hall of Fame center Bob Lanier comes to the Warriors for his first season on the sidelines, rejoining his former Milwaukee Bucks Head Coach Don Nelson as an assistant.

Selected by the Detroit Pistons with the first pick in the 1970 NBA Draft, Lanier averaged 22.5 points per game and was named to the All-Rookie Team. After nine and a half seasons with the Pistons, he was traded to the Milwaukee Bucks on February 4, 1980. In four-and-a-half seasons with Nelson, Lanier helped lead the Bucks to five division titles and two trips to the Eastern Conference Finals. The eight-time All-Star and MVP in the 1974 All-Star Game was inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame in May 1992. He ranks 23rd on the NBA's all-time scoring list with 19,248 career points and is one of only six players to have his number (16) retired by two teams.

While Lanier made his presence felt on the court, his off-court contributions have been just as impressive. As the president of the National Basketball Players Association in the early 1980's, he spearheaded the development of a revenue-sharing labor agreement and the league's strong anti-drug program. For the past four years, he traveled the country as the national chairman of the NBA Stay in School program. In addition, he was as an expert analyst on NBA Radio broadcasts for the past two seasons.

Lanier is also president of Bob Lanier Enterprises, Inc., a Milwaukee-based promotional merchandise company he started at the conclusion of his NBA career. He also held various broadcasting positions in Milwaukee following his playing days.

Lanier, 46, earned a bachelor's degree in business administration and later an honorary doctorate from St. Bonaventure University. He has received several honors including the 1978 Walter Kennedy Citizenship Award and the 1981 Jackie Robinson Award, both for his commitment to his communities and youth. Despite all of his accomplishments, he is probably best known for his size 22 shoes, which are also in the Hall of Fame. Lanier is the father of four — Walter, 27; Kimberly, 21; Tiffany, 19; and Robert III, 13 —and grandfather of two.

Ed Gregory

Director of Scouting

The frequent flier miles continue to pile up for Ed Gregory. Now entering his ninth season with the Warriors and his sixth as director of scouting, Gregory spans the globe scouting college players, as well as international and CBA players. This past summer Gregory was able to look at even more international players while he served as an assistant coach for the German National Team which played in the World Championship of Basketball.

Gregory, 63, has earned league-wide respect for his string of successful Warriors draft picks including Mitch Richmond, Tim Hardaway, Latrell Sprewell and Chris Webber. He first joined the Warriors in 1986 as an assistant coach to George Karl and took over as acting head coach for the final 18 games of the 1987-88 season. Prior to that, Gregory spent three years as a scout for the Portland Trail Blazers (1978-1981) and another three years scouting for the Cleveland Cavaliers (1983-1986). He was responsible for one of the best drafts in the history of the league in 1986 when Cleveland acquired Brad Daugherty, Ron Harper, Mark Price and Johnny Newman.

Before joining the professional ranks, Gregory was the head coach at Fresno State University for 12 years (1965-77), where his record was 172-143 (.546). He also coached at Nevada Southern from 1963-65 and posted a record of 40-15 (.727).

Gregory served one year in the U.S. Air Force before attending Pepperdine University where he received his bachelor's degree in physical education. He later earned a master's degree in physical education from the University of Southern California. A native of Memphis, Texas, Gregory now lives in Alameda.

John Rizzardini

Manager of Basketball Services

John Rizzardini moves from his role as the team's vice-president of marketing to the newly-created position of manager of basketball services. In this role, Rizzardini joins head coach Don Nelson's staff as a scout coordinator, a salary cap administrator and an overseer of the basketball operations budget.

He changes course after three years as the vice president of marketing where he directed a staff of 15 full-time and 20 part-time employees. He oversaw the team's marketing efforts which include ticket sales, ticket operations, game operations and special events. Under his leadership, the team's season ticket holder base had to be capped at 13,000 (up from just 1,826 in 1985-86). In addition, Rizzardini secured and arranged the team's pre-season schedule and coordinated with Oakland Coliseum officials on security, customer service and game operations.

Rizzardini, 37, joined the Warriors as a media relations assistant in 1986 and worked as a sales administrator before his promotion to director of marketing in December 1988. He was named the team's vice president of marketing in January 1992. Prior to joining the Warriors, he was the fitness director for the Flagship Athletic Club in Eden Prairie, Minnesota and the women's volleyball coach at the University of Michigan.

The New London, Connecticut native earned a bachelor's degree in physical education from Cornell College in Mount Vernon, Iowa and later earned a master's degree in sports administration from Western Illinois University. Rizzardini serves on the Bay Area Sports Hall of Fame Committee, is an avid triathlete and marathoner and lives in Alameda.

Tom Abdenour

Athletic Trainer

Tom Abdenour, in his eighth year as the Warriors' athletic trainer, spent this past summer as the trainer for the 1994 gold medal-winning U.S. World Championship team. The honor of being selected to work with Dream Team II serves as a sign of the respect Abdenour has earned throughout the NBA.

Abdenour, 40, first received high praise from his peers in 1990 when he was voted the NBA Athletic Trainer of the Year. In addition, he played a major role in the expansion of the NBTA's exhibit at the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass. Two years ago, Abdenour wrote an injury guide book and in the summer of 1993, he even tested the waters as an inventor. He co-created Pro-Stim, a device which combines electrical stimulation and cold therapies. He also recently received his certificate in theraputic massage.

Before joining the Warriors in 1987, Abdenour spent eight years in Ogden, UT as the athletic trainer for all 15 varsity sports programs at Weber State. Prior to that, he spent one year as trainer at Hillsdale College in South Central Michigan.

Abdenour attended Wayne State University in Detroit where he received his bachelor's degree in biology, as well as his master's degree in science education. He teams up with his brother Mike, the athletic trainer for the Philadelphia 76ers, to form the only brother duo in NBA history to hold such positions. Tom resides in San Leandro with his wife, Christine, two daughters, Rebecca and Carolyn, and son, Thomas.

Mark Grabow

Strength and Conditioning Coach

As the Warriors' strength and conditioning coach, Mark Grabow is responsible for the team's conditioning, strength training, flexibilty and nutrition programs. Now entering his sixth consecutive year (after rejoining the Warriors following a one-year hiatus with the Phoenix Suns), Grabow also designs personalized curriculums for each player and oversees injury rehabilitaion.

Grabow has worked with a wide variety of teams and athletes through the years. Most recently he trained the United States Tennis Association Junior National Team. During that time, he developed a training video used by junior tennis players across the country. Other teams he has worked with include the Stanford men's basketball team, the 1990 Stanford women's NCAA championship basketball team, and Stanford's men's NCAA championship tennis team. Individual athletes have also called upon Grabow's expertise including Andre Agassi, Brad Gilbert, Patrick McEnroe, Aaron Krickstein and Jennifer Capriati. In addition, Grabow also works at Pete Newell's annual Big Man's Camp and does performance consulting with S.T.A.R.T. Technology & Axis Sports.

A native of Patterson, NJ, Grabow graduated with a bachelor's degree in psychology and education from American University in Washington D.C. He earned eight varsity letters, was the captain of his soccer and baseball teams, and was named the 1973 Middle Atlantic Conference's MVP in soccer. He played for the United States soccer team in the 1975 Pan American games and went on to play professionally for the Washington Diplomats of the North American Soccer League from 1975-77. Grabow currently resides in Lafayette with his fiance Lori.

Nate Thurmond

Director of Community Relations

Nate Thurmond celebrates his 25th season as a member of the Warriors organization, 11 as a player and now 14 as a member of the community relations department. As a familiar and celebrated Bay Area personality, Thurmond makes numerous community appearances throughout the Bay Area.

Thurmond, who was inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame in 1984, started his career in 1963 as the Warriors' first round pick (#3). After 11 seasons as a Warrior he was traded to the Chicago Bulls on September 3, 1974, bringing to a close one of the most glorious careers in Warriors history. Thurmond remains the franchise leader in games played (757), rebounds (12,771) and minutes (30,729) and is in the top 10 in eight other Warriors career record categories. Following the trade, he led Chicago to its first division title and won the league's rebounding crown in 1974-75. The next season he was traded to Cleveland, a neighbor to his native Akron, Ohio. Once again he found success, leading the Cavaliers to their only division championship in franchise history and all the way to the Eastern Conference Championship. In all, Thurmond competed in 14 NBA seasons.

Thurmond's number 42 is retired by both the Warriors and Cavaliers, making him one of only six men in NBA history to have his number retired by two teams. His 14,464 rebounds ranks sixth on the all-time NBA list and he still holds the record for the most rebounds in one quarter (18). Other honors include being named to the NBA All-Defensive First Team in 1969 and 1971, and the NBA All-Defensive Second Team in 1972, 1973 and 1974.

In addition to his work with the Warriors, Thurmond is co-owner of "Big Nate's Barbecue," a take-out restaurant in San Francisco. He and his wife Marci live in San Francisco.

Tod Leiweke

President of Warriors' Arena Development Company

Tod Leiweke, a highly-skilled top executive, rejoins Golden State as President of the Warriors' Arena Development Company, after spending the last two years with the Professional Golf Association and the Houston Rockets.

Along with team president Dan Finnane, Leiweke, 34, is in charge of directing the Warriors' efforts to build a new entertainment facility in the Bay Area. The Warriors' Arena Development Company is a division of the Golden State Warriors.

Leiweke was the team's vice president of marketing and broadcasting for five years before leaving the team in December 1991 to become the vice president of marketing for the PGA Tour. In September 1993 he accepted the position of president of the Houston Rockets, but resigned in January 1994 to join the Warriors. Under Leiweke's leadership as vice president of marketing and broadcasting, season ticket sales increased from a low of 2,900 in 1987 to over 13,000 in 1991. In addition, Lieweke was responsible for the tremendous growth of Warriors television coverage, raising the number of games aired from 20 to 76 before he left.

Prior to joining the Warriors, Leiweke was a partner in Leiweke & Company, a Kansas City-based promotional consulting firm he started with his two brothers. His brother Tim is currently the president of the Denver Nuggets, after spending two years with the Minnesota Timberwolves. Leiweke's marketing career began in 1981 when he joined the Kansas City Comets of the Major Indoor Soccer League and continued with the New York Arrows. In 1983, at the age of 24, he became the youngest general manager in the history of the league. Tod, his wife Tara and their two-year-old son Tyler live in San Francisco.

Richard Rogers

Senior Vice President of Marketing/Broadcasting

Now in his ninth season with the Warriors, Rich Rogers, 40, enters his fourth year as the team's senior vice president of marketing and broadcasting. He oversees the franchise's marketing, broadcasting, ticket sales, promotions and game operations. Rogers assumed his position in November 1991, after five years as the team's vice president of finance/controller, where he was responsible for the franchise's financial, accounting and legal matters.

Most recently, Rogers has orchestrated a television schedule which will include all 82 Warriors games, a franchise record. In addition to games aired by broadcast partners KPIX-TV, KICU-TV and SportsChannel, at least 14 will be carried on national television.

In addition to securing game broadcasts, Rogers has been instrumental in putting together a variety of Warriors television and radio shows. This season "Warriors Television Roundtable," a weekly half-hour show will air on SportsChannel as will the bi-weekly "Ask Nellie" radio show on KNBR. "Warriors Weekly Roundtable" will return to KNBR and a television version of "Ask Nellie" will debut this season on SportsChannel. The Warriors will also continue to broadcast in Spanish all home games and a majority of road games on KIQI Radio.

Prior to joining the Warriors, Rogers, 40, spent seven years with Arthur Andersen & Company, an international accounting and financial consulting firm. He graduated from the University of California at Santa Barbara in 1977 with a degree in psychology. He did a year of graduate work at the UCSB School of Education and completed his accounting education at Cal State Hayward. A Bay Area native, Rogers is the past chairman of the Oakland East Bay Symphony Board and a board member of the Society of Television, Advertising and Radio. He and his wife Judy live in Danville with their three sons, Kyle, Blake and Dylan.

David McGahey

Vice President of Broadcasting

Now in his sixth season with the Warriors, David McGahey continues as the executive producer of "Warriors Television Roundtable" shown on SportsChannel and "Warriors Radio Roundtable" aired on KNBR Radio. In addition, he also produces game broadcasts on KNBR and KIQI (Spanish Radio) and co-produces "Ask Nellie, " a live bi-weekly radio show on KNBR. This year, McGahey will also co-produce an "Ask Nellie" show for SportsChannel.

Prior to being named vice president of broadcasting in January 1992, McGahey was the director of broadcast sales for four years. Before joining the Warriors he held management positions with Metromedia, General Electric Broadcasting, NBC and King Broadcasting.

The Philadelphia native graduated from Dickinson College in Carlisle, Penn. and later earned a master's degree in communications from the University of Pennsylvania. McGahey, an avid collector of all sports memorabilia, lives in Sausalito.

Steve Albert

Television Play-By-Play Announcer

Blessed with the distinctive Albert family vocal chords shared by his brothers Marv and Al, Steve Albert possesses one of the most recognized voices in sports broadcasting.

The youngest of the announcing Alberts (Marv does play-by-play for the New York Knicks and the NBA on NBC, while Al does Denver Nuggets games), Steve enters his fifth season with the Warriors following 13 seasons with the New Jersey Nets. Albert teams with Jim Barnett on KPIX-TV, KICU-TV and SportsChannel telecasts.

When not courtside with Barnett, Albert can usually be found ringside with "The Fight Doctor" Ferdie Pacheco. Albert has been a regular ringside announcer for Showtime since 1987 and has announced over 60 championship fights, 20 in the last year alone. While calling fights from such locations as Belfast, Northern Ireland; Melbourne, Australia and London, Albert worked some of the great boxing events of the year, including Frankie Randall's tremendous upset win over the previously undefeated Julio Caesar Chavez. He earned a cable television ACE nomination for his call of the Chavez-Greg Haugen fight in front of 136,000 fans at Azteca Stadium in Mexico.

The tireless Albert continues to provide play-by-play for MTV's "Rock and Jock" basketball and softball games benefitting the Pediatric AIDS Foundation and he also hosted "The Grudge Match," a nationally-syndicated sports competition show.

After beginning his career in New York as a sports anchor for WCBS-TV, WNBC-TV, ESPN and Superstation WWOR-TV in New York City, Albert moved to Cleveland in 1972 to do play-by-play for the Cleveland Crusaders of the World Hockey Association. Albert also did play-by-play for the Cleveland Cavaliers for one year and called World Team Tennis before returning to New York in 1975 to call the final championship season of the American Basketball Association's New York Nets. In addition, Albert called the action for the New York Islanders (1978-80), the New York Mets (1979-81) and the New York Jets (1985).

A native of Brooklyn, New York, Albert graduated from Kent State University with a bachelor's degree in telecommunications. He lives in San Francisco.

Jim Barnett

Television Analyst

Jim Barnett celebrates his 10th season as the Warriors' television analyst. A master of time management, Barnett analyzes Warriors game action, participates in several Warriors radio and television programs, and is actively involved in Warriors community relations projects, all while being an extremely successful businessman. Barnett is in his 17th year as an account executive at Jack Nadel, Inc., an Oakland-based direct response promotion company.

As a member of one of the NBA's strongest broadcast teams, Barnett is involved in "Warriors Television Roundtable," a weekly half-hour show on SportsChannel and "Warriors Radio Roundtable," a weekly hour-long KNBR program. He also joins Warriors play-by-play announcer Greg Papa in all post-game radio shows.

Barnett, 50, was an All-America at the University of Oregon and played 11 seasons in the NBA, including three with the Warriors (1971-74). He was drafted by the Boston Celtics in the first round of the 1966 NBA Draft and played for seven different teams (Boston, San Diego, Portland, Golden State, New Orleans, New York and Philadelphia). He averaged a career-high 18.5 points with Portland in 1970-71.

A native of Riverside, California, Barnett and his wife Sandy live in Orinda with their 18-year-old daughter Jennifer.

Greg Papa

Radio Play-By-Play Announcer

Greg Papa, 32, is now in his eighth season as the voice of the Golden State Warriors. He is known not only for his distinctive voice and vast basketball knowledge, but for his attention to on-court detail and his excitable call of the action.

Recognized by Sports Illustrated as a rising star while still a student at Syracuse University, Papa became the youngest-ever to broadcast a professional basketball game, when he was hired by the Indiana Pacers in 1984 as a back-up announcer at age 21. The following year, he was named as the team's top announcer where he remained for another season before joining the Warriors for the 1986-87 season.

In addition to calling game action, Papa hosts several Warriors radio and television programs. He is beginning his second season hosting the "Warriors Television Roundtable," a weekly half-hour show on SportsChannel and his third season on "Warriors Radio Roundtable," a weekly hour-long KNBR program. He will continue to host "Warriors Presstable," "The Don Nelson Show" and "Courtside Live," his pre-game shows at the beginning of each radio broadcast. "Courtside Live" and "Warriors Roundtable," a free-wheeling discussion with Steve Albert, Jim Barnett and selected guests, close out his post-game programming.

During the summer, Papa is busy as the play-by-play announcer for 80 Oakland Athletics games on SportsChannel. In all, he calls an average of 165 games a year. Papa is also actively involved in Warriors community relations projects.

A native of Buffalo, NY, he lives in Danville with his wife Angela, three-year-old son Derek and one-year-old daughter Alexandra.

Amaury Pi-Gonzalez

Spanish Radio Play-By-Play Announcer

Amaury Pi-Gonzalez (pronounced Pea-Gonzalez) returns for his third season as the Warriors' Spanish voice on KIQI Radio. With a record 50 games broadcast in Spanish last season, the Warriors are looking this year to broadcast almost all of their games in Spanish.

Pi-Gonzalez, the sports anchor at KSTS-TV (Channel 48) in San Jose since 1990, is considered the leading Spanish announcer in the Bay Area. He has held various radio and television positions with KOFY, KBRQ and Channel 14. In addition, he was a veteran of 17 years as the Spanish voice of the Oakland Athletics. This past season, he called the action for a number of A's and San Francisco Giants games.

A native of Cuba, Pi-Gonzalez moved to Florida in 1961. He has held a variety of challenging broadcast postions throughout his career. After graduating from the University of Miami (where he did Spanish broadcasts for Miami's WFAB radio), he spent two years in the U.S. Army and then moved to the Bay Area in 1969. Since that time he has anchored the Oakland A's Spanish radio broadcasts of the 1989 and 1990 American League Championships and World Series and called World Series play-by-play for CBS Spanish Radio from 1985 to 1987. In addition, Pi-Gonzalez has covered Super Bowls, World Series, boxing, basketball and soccer for Spanish Radio. He also works as a correspondent for Spanish newspapers and radio stations throughout the country. He and his wife Gail have two children and live in Fremont.

"I think he can be one of the best forwards in the game. There's just a handful who can do what he can - get the ball off the board and handle it like a point guard, dribble, pass or take it coast to coast."

— Tim Hardaway, Warriors

"He'll get better - a lot better. In terms of penetrating, he does that better than anybody, especially when he gets the ball off the rim."

— Latrell Sprewell, Warriors

"We're very effective with him running our ballclub. We're using him a lot - especially down the stretch. He makes good decisions and understands the plays."

— Don Nelson, Warriors

"Some guys playing in the All-Star game I know well. I feel I should be with them. But I don't want anybody to give it to me. I've got to earn it. I want the others to see when they play Golden State. I want them to say 'We got to stop Billy Owens.'"

— Billy Owens

"Next to Michael Jordan, he's got to be the quickest two-guard with the ball that I've ever played against. He can shoot, run the floor, jump, and he doesn't get tired."

— Reggie Miller, Indiana Pacers

"He's great. He's the most exciting player I've seen this year. I love him. If he continues to do what he's doing, he's got as bright a future as any guard in this league."

— Doug Collins, TNT

"When I'm not in the game, I sit and have fun watching him. There's hardly anything he can't do. I've often thought he could be the next Michael Jordan."

— Billy Owens, Warriors

"Our coaches and I sit around and think about how good he's going to be. The sky is the absolute limit for Latrell Sprewell."

— Don Nelson, Warriors

"Obviously he has surprised a lot of people, because look where he was drafted. I didn't know who he was at first. Now everybody knows who he is. Some guys get better after they get in the league. He's one of them."

Warriors 1993-94 Season Highlights

A MOST IMPROVED EFFORT

The Warriors completed their 48th season in the National Basketball Association with a 50-32 record, reaching the 50-win mark for just the fourth time in franchise history. Golden State owned the league's most improved record (+16 wins) after finishing with a 34-48 mark the previous season. The Warriors became the seventh team in NBA history which has won 50 or more games and, in doing so, posted more wins than its total number of losses from the previous season. The team won eight of nine and 14 of its last 19 games to finish the regular season in third place in the Pacific Division. In the playoffs, Golden State was eliminated in the first round by the defending Western Conference champion Phoenix Suns in three games.

SHARP SHOOTERS

The Warriors led the NBA in field goal shooting percentage (.492) and ranked second in team scoring average with a 107.9 ppg mark. Golden State has ranked either first, second or third in the league on offense for five straight years. After January 1, when the team ranked 19th in the NBA in scoring (100.8 ppg on .467 FG shooting), the Warriors averaged a league-leading 111.3 ppg on .503 floor shooting.

A PASSING FANCY

Even though All-Star and Dream Team II point guard Tim Hardaway spent the entire season on the injured list with a torn anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee, the Warriors set a franchise record for assists with 2,198, breaking the mark of 2,120 which had been established by Rick Barry, Phil Smith, Jamaal Wilkes and the Warriors' 1976-77 squad.

STILL A FULL HOUSE

The Warriors sold out 41 regular season games and their one playoff contest against Phoenix to run their streak of consecutive sellouts at the Oakland Coliseum Arena to 229. Bay Area fans once again equalled the team's regular season home attendance record of 616,025 which was set during the 1989-90 season. Local patrons also helped to set a new NBA attendance record. A total of 17,984,014 fans attended games in the league's 27 cities, breaking the previous mark of 17,778,295 which had been established the previous year.

GOLDEN STATS

The Warriors owned the NBA's best record in games decided by five points or fewer (.815, 22-5). Don Nelson's troops also claimed the league's top mark in games which they took a lead into the fourth quarter (.972, 35-1). The ballclub also excelled in comeback efforts by winning a league-leading 14 times when they had trailed after three quarters. The Warriors had the NBA's finest record in games which they held their opponents to fewer than 100 points (.920, 23-2). Golden State limited its opponents to an average of 106.1 ppg, the team's best defensive effort in 15 years.

THE HONOR ROLL

In just his second NBA season, Latrell Sprewell became the first guard in franchise history to be named to the All-NBA First Team. At age 23, he became the youngest player to make the All-NBA First Team since Isiah Thomas in 1984. He became the youngest guard ever to make the NBA All-Defensive Team when the league's head coaches placed him on the Second Team. Sprewell also nearly won the league's Most Improved Player Award, finishing second to Don MacLean of Washington in a national media vote. In February, the Western Conference's head coaches honored him with an invitation to play in the 1994 NBA All-Star Game. Twenty-one-year-old Chris Webber, the youngest player in the league, was named the 1994 Coca-Cola classic NBA Rookie of the Year after becoming the first rookie in league history to total over 1,000 points, 500 rebounds, 250 assists, 150 blocks and 75 steals in a season. Webber was also unanimously named to the NBA All-Rookie First Team. Don Nelson became the seventh coach in league history to win 800 career regular season games when Golden State beat Utah on April 16. He reached the 800-win mark in fewer games (1,372) and at a younger age (53) than any coach in history, except for Red Auerbach.

NOTES

- Head Coach Alvin Attles won his 400th career game on 12/2/78 at Phoenix, a milestone achieved by only nine other coaches in NBA history at the time.
- Parish became the first Warrior since Nate Thurmond in 1969 to record 30 points and 30 rebounds in one game with 30 points and 32 boards vs. New York on 3/30/79.
- John Lucas finished second in the NBA in assists with a 9.3 per game average.
- Team was the youngest in the league both in age (24.3 yrs.) and experience (2.3 yrs.).
- Team finished below .500 for the first time in nine seasons and in last place in the division, 14 games behind Seattle.

NOTES

- Head coach Alvin Attles posted his 500th career coaching victory vs. Dallas on 1/2/82. At the time only five other coaches had ever reached that plateau in the NBA.
- Bernard King (eighth) and World Free (ninth) became the first Warriors duo to finish among the league's top 10 in scoring in the same season since 1960-61 (Wilt Chamberlain and Paul Arizin).
- The team's overall field goal percentage of .496 established a club record.
- The team was tied with the Lakers for last in free throw percentage at .711.
- King was the first Warrior in four years to appear in the NBA All-Star game.
- King also was selected to the All-NBA Second Team.
- For the second straight year, the Warriors were one game short of qualifying for the playoffs.

NOTES

- Jim Fitzgerald and Dan Finnane purchased the Warriors franchise from Franklin Mieuli (May 23, 1986). George Karl named head coach.
- Joe Barry Carroll and Eric Floyd selected to NBA Western Conference All-Star Team.
- Floyd set a club record for assists and finished second in the league (10.3 per game). He also established a club record for 3-point field goals made (73).
- Larry Smith finished sixth in the NBA in rebounding (11.5 per game).
- The team qualified for the playoffs for the first time in 10 seasons.
- In the first round of the playoffs, Warriors came back from 2-0 deficit to defeat Utah, the first team since 1956 to accomplish that feat in a five-game series.
- Floyd hit an NBA playoff-high 51 points in Game 4 vs. Lakers, setting NBA playoff records with 39 points in the second half and 29 in the fourth quarter.

WESTERN CONFERENCE FIRST ROUND

SuperSonics win series 3-1

April 23 Seattle 117 at Golden State 109
April 25 Seattle 101 at Golden State 115
April 28 Golden State 128 at Seattle 129
April 30 Golden State 116 at Seattle 119

NOTES

- Traded Mitch Richmond, Les Jepson and a second round draft pick in 1995 to the Sacramento Kings for the rights to Billy Owens on 11/1/91.
- Recorded their best regular season record in 16 years (55-27) and an all-time best 24-17 (.585) road record. Maintained a winning record throughout an entire season for the first time in franchise history.
- Led the league in scoring for the second time in three years (118.7 ppg). Mullin (25.6 ppg, third), Hardaway (23.4 ppg, sixth) and Marciulionis (18.9 ppg, 26th) ranked among the NBA leaders in scoring and formed the league's top scoring trio.
- Mullin (first team) and Hardaway (second team) were named to the All-NBA Team. Prior to the season, Mullin was named to the 1992 U.S. Olympic "Dream Team." Don Nelson won the NBA Coach of the Year Award for an unprecedented third time. Owens was a unanimous pick for the All-Rookie Team.

NOTES

- Led the NBA in games missed due to injury or illness with 14 players sidelined for a total of 312 games. Mullin, Hardaway, Marciulionis and Owens were on the court at the same time for a total of two minutes and 37 seconds (2nd Quarter, Jan.12 vs. Atlanta).
- Mullin became the sixth player in team history to be named an NBA All-Star for the fifth time and was joined on the Western Conference team by Hardaway, giving the Warriors an All-Star duo for a third straight season. Hardaway, who finished 13th in the league in scoring (21.5 ppg) and second in assists (10.6 apg), was named to the All-NBA Third Team, becoming the first guard in franchise history to make back-to-back appearances on the team. Sprewell, the first rookie in team history to total at least 1,000 points, 250 rebounds, 250 assists, 100 steals and 50 blocks was named to the NBA All-Rookie Second Team.
- Hill became the first Warrior in six years to average double figures in rebounds, finishing 16th in the NBA with a 10.2 rpg average. Golden State outrebounded its opponents for the first time in 11 seasons.
- Lost a league-high 10 games by three points or fewer and finished the season with the league's seventh-worst record. Team was awarded the third pick in the 1993 NBA Draft at the NBA Draft Lottery. Used the pick to select Anfernee Hardaway, then immediately traded his rights along with three future first round picks to Orlando for the rights to Chris Webber, the number one pick in the draft.

WESTERN CONFERENCE FIRST ROUND

Suns win series 3-0

April 29 Golden State 104 at Phoenix 111
May 1 Golden State 111 at Phoenix 117
May 4 Phoenix 140 at Golden State 133

NOTES

- Reached the 50-win mark for just the fourth time in franchise history and posted the NBA's most improved record (+16 wins) despite a rash of injuries which caused Mullin to miss the first 20 games of the season and completely sidelined Hardaway and Marciulionis.
- Established a new team record for assists (2,198), led the NBA in field goal shooting percentage (.492) and ranked second in scoring (107.9 ppg) while limiting opponents to an average of 106.1 ppg, the club's best defensive effort in 15 years.
- Sprewell, a member of the 1994 NBA Western Conference All-Star Team, became the first guard in team history to be named to the the All-NBA First Team. At age 23, he also became the youngest guard in history to make the NBA All-Defensive Team when he was voted to the second team by the league's head coaches. Finished second in the voting for the league's most improved player award.
- Webber, the youngest player in the league at age 21, was named the 1994 Coca-Cola classic NBA Rookie of the Year after becoming the first rookie in history to total over 1,000 points, 500 rebounds, 250 assists, 150 blocks and 75 steals in a season. Was also a unanimous choice for the NBA All-Rookie First Team.
- Don Nelson was selected by USA Basketball to coach Dream Team II, a group of NBA stars which included Hardaway, at the 1994 World Championship of Basketball.
